HOME AGAIN.

Stewart Received With Open Arms at His Home.

They All Went Out to Meet Him When He Came.

FLAGSTAFF IN GLORY.

The Town Turned Upside Down with Rejoicing.

Cocconino County Will Give an Overwhelming Majority.

Stewart and Cluff Address Big Meetings at the Same Time.

Flagstaff, Ariz., Nov. 7.—[Special.] The town is ablaze with red lights to-night. The largest procession occurred since the ratification meeting of the new county.

W. G. Stewart came in on the morning train from Holbrook, where he was met by a large delegation of both ladies and gentlemen, who went out on the depot to welcome the "little giant."

The train pulled into the depot and a large crowd gathered. Stewart and Cluff were met by a large delegation of both ladies and gentlemen, who went out on the depot to welcome the "little giant."

Stewart spoke for nearly an hour and his brilliant enthusiasm prevailed. He made a review of the campaign and left his neighbors and friends to judge whether or not the defamatory comments circulated by Mark Smith and his backers were true. He said the people of Flagstaff knew his every-day life. They knew his position on every vital question that had been touched in the campaign. He would be more honored by their favorable verdict than an election, without their vote, to say office in the gift of the American people.

He did not feel that it was necessary to repeat his position on the issues of the campaign beyond a mere review and summing up of the situation. He had made a hard canvass, a thorough canvass, and felt confident of the result. He was glad to get back home again; and the recognition he had received and expected to be prouder still when Cocconino rolled in her 200 majority for him election night. He did not take the splendid enthusiasm and gracious welcome to himself as a representative of one of the best counties in the territory. He hoped to be able to add, the banner Republican county.

Stewart made a flattering eulogy on the line, Geo. Cluff, Republican nominee for councilman-at-large. He said he was honest in his intentions and vigorous in his expressions—a man capable in every way to fill the important duties imposed upon the office to which he would be elected.

Mr. Stewart is looking remarkably vigorous after his canvass, and tips the scales at twelve pounds more than when he left here to open the campaign. Cocconino county will give him a magnificent majority.

Gen. Andrade in Yuma. Yuma, Ariz., Nov. 7.—[Special.] Gen. Andrade of San Francisco, the well known business man who owns 1,000 acres of the finest lands on both sides of the Colorado river below Yuma, arrived here this evening with two capitalists for the purpose of examining the section of the country. They leave this morning for the mouth of the Colorado, and a trip up New River to the Volcanoes. If pleased with the lands, they will probably take the whole body of them, one of the finest tracts on the Pacific Coast.

G. P. C. Sears the well known California rancher and fruit grower passed through town today on his way to Phoenix.

In The Cocopah. Yuma, Ariz., Nov. 7.—[Special.] United States Senator James Fair, Gen. G. Andrade, Col. D. K. Allen and party left today for the mouth of the Colorado river, Fort Isabel, San Felipe, the Cocopah Sulphur mines, the Volcanoes and other points of interest on a trip of pleasure and business which will occupy several days.

PASSENGER WRECK.

A Train on the Mexican Central Ditched by a Cow.

El Paso, Nov. 7.—[Special.] A passenger wreck occurred on the Mexican Central yesterday morning at 1 o'clock in which Engineer T. P. Way and Fireman Thompson both lost their lives. The accident happened ten miles this side of Jimulco and within a short distance of Picardias.

As the train rounded the curve the engineer sounded the usual warning for stock on the track and in a few seconds the engine struck a cow. The train, though a passenger, had two cars loaded with corn next to the engine. The engine and these two freight cars went down the embankment in a heap, burying the engineer and fireman beneath them.

The baggage car and all of the passenger coaches left the rails, but remained right side up. Baggage-master H. M. Lyons received only slight bruises. The passengers were badly shaken up, but beyond that sustained no injuries. The Pullman sleeper did not leave the rails. Frank E. Detwiler was conductor of the train and was unhurt.

The bodies of Engineer Way and Fireman Thompson could not be removed until a wrecker was sent out to clear the track. Both were old men on the road and had many friends. It was a miracle that the passenger coaches did not roll down the embankment, thereby causing great loss of life.

The Colorado Canal.

Yuma, Ariz., Nov. 7.—[Special.] The Colorado canal engineers have reached Seven Wells on the old San Diego stage road where they are camped, 38 miles west of Yuma and 20 miles west of the Colorado river. Another week will carry them to the national boundary line and back upon American soil, and near to the divide or rim which divides the Salton basin from that at Alamo Mucho.

From that point to Salton lake, 40 miles, the descent is 220 feet, but by angling back and forth across the desert distance enough can be gained so as to admit of building the canal. At least this is thought to be the case. The engineers will soon ascertain whether it is so or not.

If this canal can be built, or rather if Carter river can be used in place of building a canal, the company has an easy task on hand.

PESTIFEROUS KID.

Troops Massing Near Colonia Pacheco.

The Soldiers Are Afraid of Another Ambush and Don't Like the Job.

DEMING, N. M., Nov. 7.—[Special.] Nothing of importance has reached here from Old Mexico regarding the recent battle between the troops of the Fifth regiment and the Apache Indians, except that the troops are massing in the vicinity of Colonia Pacheco, preparatory to a combined movement against the renegades. The Sierra Madre mountains, in which the savages have taken refuge, will be thoroughly searched and the chances are that "Kid" and his followers will very soon find matters so warm there that he will change his quarters, if he has not done so already. The Indians do not return to the San Carlos reservation, and will be compelled to depend upon their stealings for sustenance during the winter. The Mexican troops are not looking forward with any particular joy to the campaign in the mountains, where they are in constant danger of being ambushed and the history of Tuesday's disaster repeated. Captain Dorantes, the murdered officer, was formerly in command of the custom house guard at Las Palomas, having been ordered there at the time of the troubles in Asencion last spring. He also distinguished himself by his prompt measures in restoring order at Asencion.

Perfectly Harmless.

Lady—I hear you fought a duel with Mr. Meyer yesterday.

Gen.—That is so.

Lady—But did you not feel afraid when standing before a loaded revolver?

Gen.—Not in the least when Mr. Meyer holds it, for he is my insurance agent.—Gewebeblatt.

THE NORTHWEST

Everything Seems to Be Favorable.

Wild Claims of the Chicago Branch

Of the National Democratic Committee.

Republican Committeemen are Calmly Confident that All is Well.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—[Associated Press.] The close of the campaign finds both parties in the northwest confident. From the branch Democratic National headquarters here telegrams were sent out today to all local committees in the west assuring them that a careful poll left no room for a doubt of Cleveland's success in Illinois and Wisconsin.

This afternoon Chairman Cable of the western headquarters gave to representatives of the associated press the following statement of the situation in the northwest: In Illinois the Democratic organization was never in better condition. I believe the two parties will come to Chicago very nearly even and that will be a majority of over four thousand which will give the state to Cleveland and Altgeld by a handsome plurality. I just received a dispatch from Chairman Campbell of the Michigan Democratic committee saying the Democracy will have eight electors, a large majority of congressmen and a Democratic legislature. A dispatch just received from the chairman of the South Dakota Democratic state committee gives me assurance that the Weaver electors will have a plurality. Chairman Wall of the Wisconsin state committee telephoned me that the Democrats will have a majority of 13,000 outside of Milwaukee. In Iowa our friends made a good fight and predict that they will carry the state.

Hon. Wm. J. Campbell, of Illinois, a member of the Republican National committee said to an Associated Press representative that he believed Illinois would give a majority for the Harrison electors larger than four years ago and that Governor Fifer will be re-elected. Campbell's latest information from Wisconsin is of an assuring character and he felt sanguine of a majority for Harrison and the election of Spooner as governor by a plurality of several thousand. He did not regard Iowa as any more in doubt than Ohio or Pennsylvania. Regarding other western states he said that members of the National committee feel that the situation has steadily improved for a fortnight and Republican leaders are sanguine of success everywhere except in Dakota. The loss of a portion of the electors of Michigan is possible but by no means probable. My advice lead me to believe that while the vote may be close in Indiana the chances are decidedly favorable to the Republicans.

Another dispatch says: There is practically no change in the situation in Indiana. The result is still involved in doubt, and both sides are claiming the electoral ticket and state officers by a good round plurality. The Peoples Party chairman places the Populist vote in the state at 49,500. The Populists claim fifteen members of the legislature and that they will hold the balance of power in that body and dictate the election of the successor to Senator Turpie. The Prohibition and Peoples Party vote are in quantities that give to such elements great uncertainty. A comparison of the vote will be based on the vote of 1890 when the Democratic state ticket was elected by 19,000 plurality. There are 2,969 precincts in the state, and to overcome the plurality of two years ago the Republicans will have to gain nearly seven votes to each precinct.

Have Struck Their Colors.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 7.—There was mounting in hot haste by the Democratic leaders early this morning when it was definitely agreed upon by them to ignore their party ticket and support that of the third party. Word was wired to all the county and state committee men of the proposed action. Two special trains were chartered and started through the state carrying orders. One Southern Pacific goes to Ashland and the messengers aboard were Dr. Murphy, chairman of the state central committee, and J. L. Sperry. One over the Union Pacific goes to La Grange and conveys John Barrett and T. J. O'Day. These messengers have wired the central committee from various points to the effect that the action is meeting the approval of leading Democrats who recognize the only way of keeping the state from Harrison is to vote for Weaver. Judge Bellingier, of the county campaign committee, issued an address this afternoon calling upon the Democrats to support Weaver.

THE TRAMWAY.

Work on the Harris Line to Be Commenced at Once.

Geo. H. Harris and H. B. Robinson of the Phoenix Tramway company arrived in the city yesterday morning fully prepared to begin the construction of the electric railway. Mr. Harris was detained at Denver by a long spell of sickness, but on his recovery at once began the organization of the company, which is now fully completed. The capital stock of the company is $200,000, and the men associated in the enterprise are known to be gentlemen of wealth and push. Mr. Harris is president of the company, H. B. Robinson, secretary and treasurer, Granville Malcom, vice-president. The directors are John S. Macbeth, Frederick B. Robinson, Jr., and the officers of the company.

The route of the railway company is not yet fully determined upon, but Messrs. Robinson and Harris will make an early decision. The power invested in them by the ordinance granting the franchise is extensive and the authority given them by the board of directors is equally so. The president and secretary today will select suitable office rooms and actively begin the work preliminary to the actual construction of the line which itself will be commenced at an early date.

Affairs in Russia.

Russian affairs look in a very bad way just now, for not only has the cholera followed the famine, while of course nihilism still is rampant, but, moreover, the czar, the carina, the czarowitz and the prime minister, M. de Giers, are all very unwell—the emperor and the statesman being really very seriously indisposed.

As a matter of fact the strength of Alexander III has always been greatly exaggerated; because he is big and muscular he is supposed to have a robust constitution.

He has plenty of muscle, and St. Petersburg is always ringing with stories more or less true of extraordinary displays of the imperial strength—lifting heavy weights, crushing with his hand all kinds of metal things, etc., but what one does not hear so much about is that his majesty has completely lost his appetite during the past eighteen months, and, moreover, that he has nervous symptoms which would indicate that he is going the way, so far as his health is concerned, of his ancestor, Paul.

To make matters still worse, his most trusted physician, Professor Obermuller, is just dead of cholera, and the czar is, rightly or wrongly, said to be the most "difficult" patient to manage in all Europe. Private information received here in Berlin from a most authentic and high source intimates that a series of events of terrible importance is likely to take place in Russia. Perhaps before Christmas the vast Russian empire may have experienced changes which will affect it in all its length and breadth.—Berlin Letter.

Not Much Difference.

Little Boy—I wish I had a rabbit.

Mr. Fourth-floor—What would you do with a rabbit in a flat?

Little Boy—Well, I guess a rabbit could get along here 'bout as well as I can.—Good News.

BOTH REST.

Democrats Dispirited and Conscious of Impending Defeat

The Two Displays Last Night a Foreboding of the Final Result Tonight.

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 7.—Nothing like the magnificent demonstration of the Republicans has ever been witnessed in the city. All previous attempts of both parties were surpassed. Preparations for the parade have been quietly going on for several days past and tonight the Democrats who had gotten up a sort of a farewell appearance are dumfounded and overwhelmed at the surpassing gorgeousness of the Republican hosts.

The Republicans on the other hand are jubilant over their success and the air is full of promise of victory tomorrow. When the Democratic contingent had gotten through the agony of their performance which served as a sort of an overture for the main feature of the evening the streets which were already crowded began to be filled with such an outpouring of ladies and children as has not been seen for many a day. American flags, banners, torches, illuminations and transparencies were the weapons of the enthusiastic citizens and were greeted with the wildest cheering and waving handkerchiefs.

Some of the mottoes were, "Mark Flirts, Micky Works," "Free Silver and Statehood," "A large showy transparency of bright tin, representing silver with four large silver dollars. Cut upon the sides was the label "Mickey Free Coin." A striking feature was a solid body of over one hundred of Tucson's solid business and professional men bearing torches and each wearing a green silk badge inscribed "Mickey," and the cap of each decorated with a small American flag. This made a great hit and as each well known torch-bearer passed by, his name was the signal for cheers. The Republicans have no fears for tomorrow.

Undoubtedly Snowed Under.

TUCSON, Ariz., Nov. 7.—The Republicans and Democrats both held their parade tonight prior to election day. The Republicans had by far the larger turnout and the streets were densely crowded. The Democrats are talking to a sparse audience at Reed's opera house, while the Republicans with banners and torches have been parading the city with music and cheering. Amongst the banners were seen such words as "Mickey Works," "Mark Flirts," "Free silver, statehood," "Vote for taxpayers," whilst the banner of each popular candidate was borne aloft. Smith is undoubtedly a snowed-under man. The Republicans will elect the majority of the county ticket.

IN TRENCHES.

The Night Preceding the Battle.

Counting the Political Pulse Beat.

A Prospective Storm in the New England States

Is More than Offset to the Republicans by the Prospect of a Fair Vote in New York.

New York, Nov. 7.—[Associated Press.] The weather prospects for tomorrow are not alluring. According to the weather bureau a heavy storm is now in progress in the Lake region and this evening there is a cold drizzling rain here. The storm tomorrow will probably extend from Virginia northward over the middle Atlantic and New England states, and the weather bureau says it is not probable that it will clear off before night.

Arrangements are all completed for the election in this city tomorrow. On behalf of the federal authorities a force of supervisors and deputy United States marshals will watch the polls to keep peace and watch out for alleged proposed frauds. There will be six or seven thousand supervisors and deputies. Sheriff Gorman is all ready to put a lot of men in every election district to watch the marshals and the police have received instructions to watch them all. It is therefore likely that the presence of so much of a force will deter all parties from any attempted frauds.

It is the general opinion of the city officers that the stories of expected trouble will amount to little. From the opening to the closing of the polls tomorrow, the judges of the supreme court will attend in turn two or three at a time in their chambers in the county court house. This will greatly aid the people who may be suspected illegally.

Situation in Nevada.

VIRGINIA, Nev., Nov. 7.—Weaver will probably carry the state. Newlands, the third party representative, will also probably get a majority, slightly less than Weaver's. Stewart has an even chance of losing four counties in his senatorial contest, Storey, Washoe, Ormsby, and Douglas, in which case he will be beaten by the opposition headed over the Republican senator.

The Claim of the Silver Men.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 7.—The silver committee claim the electoral vote of Nevada by a majority of 2,000. There are two Democratic state committees, one for fusion and the other straight out for Cleveland. The latter, however, concede the state to the Populists.

In California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—The campaign in California closed with the three principal state committees claiming victory tomorrow though the Democratic claims are made with certain qualifications. Max Popper, chairman of the Democratic committee says if 20,000 votes are polled for Weaver the state will go for Cleveland and from information in his possession he is inclined to the belief that the Peoples Party vote will be large enough to secure a Democratic victory. The Populists committee claim that Weaver will poll over 50,000 votes and carry the state by a large plurality.

A MODEL MENU.

Arizona Will Sit at This Kind of a Feast Today.

Hotel Burke of Prescott, one of the best and most thoroughly up-to-date hotels in the west has prepared an elaborate menu for today. It has been arranged more particularly for epicurean Republicans, though there are hundreds of Democrats in the territory who will gather around the consommé with infinite satisfaction and so many will insist on turning and basting the roast that it will likely be over done. The boiled meats are also likely to suffer from superfluous heat. The usual order of the menu will be changed and the soup, meats and fish will be immediately preceded by the dessert and after all the best will come last as at all well ordered feasts.

Let the following bill of fare be also insisted upon in Phoenix today:

Flowers Transported in Ice.

A decided novelty is on view at the Royal aquarium, Westminster, in connection with the exhibition of the National Chrysanthemum society. For the first time in history flowers from New Zealand have been imported in ice, and the experiment has proved a complete success. In the antipodes the culture of the chrysanthemum has awakened a good deal of interest. There April corresponds with the English chrysanthemum month of November, but until this year the growers here have had no means of accurately judging the methods of the plants reared in our Australasian colonies. It occurred to Mr. Earland, gardener to a gentleman living at Wellington, to take a few of his finest flowers to the Meat Refrigerating works. There they were placed in tin canisters filled with water and then frozen.

The tins were opened at the Royal aquarium and found to contain each a solid block of transparent ice, in the middle of which, imbedded as it were in pure crystal, was a beautiful bloom, perfect in shape and color and comprising, as experts declared, with the finest varieties customarily exhibited in England. In recognition of the success of the enterprise, taken in conjunction with its merits, a silver gilt medal was awarded, the feeling being that by way of encouragement to the New Zealand growers a special prize should be given.—London Telegraph.

Russia's Danger.

Should the czar die the principal danger will come, not from the nihilists, but from the quarter of the Grand Duke Vladimir, the czar's brother and the husband of one of the most ambitious, intriguing and unscrupulous of German princesses. Her influence has been bad for Russia in every way. Her terrible extravagance in dress has excited Russian ladies to even greater excesses in that way than they were wont to indulge in, which is certainly saying a great deal, for the Russian women have always been with our own fair compatriots the best patrons of the most extravagant Parisian modists and dressmakers, and it is to this Mecklenburg princess that St. Petersburg owes the objectionable habit which has now become so popular in the grande monde of Russia of having roulette tables in all the most select and "swagger" salons, where very high play indeed is indulged in.

The play at the house of Princess Betsy Baristinsky, for example, is very high, and a young gentleman of fortune anxious to lose most of his shekels in gambling by the side of the Neva need not by any means go to the Yacht club to do so, but can "put himself on the straw," as the French say, very easily by the roulette played at half a dozen of the best houses in St. Petersburg.—Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Comrades.

Joseph Morrison, of Clinton, Ill., came into the headquarters tent of the Seventeenth corps at the G. A. R. reunion and said he wanted to register. While waiting his turn at the book, Dr. Littlewood, of that city, who served in the Twentieth Illinois, looked at him rather suspiciously, then got up and walked around and took him in from the other side. Then he tapped him on the shoulder and remarked, "You were at Fort Henry and Fort Donelson, weren't you?" "Oh, yes," came the answer, and then the stranger began to look. "Took part at Shiloh, didn't you?" continued Dr. Littlewood, "and the capture of Vicksburg, and the march to the sea?" "Of course I did, and so did you, and—waa!" I'll be hanged, if it isn't Littlewood," shouted the stranger as he jumped from his seat and made a rush for his old comrade, whom he had not seen since the day they were mustered out, after serving in the same company during the war. Maybe they were not delighted!—Washington Post.

The number of students of electrical subjects entered at Cornell university has increased from 28 in 1884 to 230 in 1892, and in many other institutions the proportionate increase is even greater.

One or two slight circumstances may bend the twig and thus incline the tree. A Christmas gift bent Dr. Schliemann, the discoverer of buried Troy, to his life work.

CLOSE UPON HIM.

An Engagement With the Renegade.

Sanguine Hope of the Early Capture or Annihilation of the Kid and His Band.

FORT BOWIE, Ariz., Nov. 7.—[Special.] Information was received here on November 5th that a party of seven hostiles crossed the Southern Pacific track between Steins pass and San Simon, shooting at some cowboys as they went along. One had his horse shot from under him and barely escaped with his life.

A detachment of troops under command of Lieut. Bean struck their trail and followed it, coming up with the Indians near Turkey and Cave creeks, on the east side of the Chiricua mountains and a skirmish took place, the result being that the Indians' horses were captured but the troops were obliged to fortify themselves. Reinforcements were sent to Lieut. Bean and hopes are sanguine that the hostiles, among whom is the famous Kid will be captured or entirely annihilated.
